

Dear Ava [Amanda Koci] - Max:

From: Paris Samuel Miles-Brenden

Dear Ava,

My name is Paris. I have been through an incredible 21 year struggle. It took many hurdles, and I ended up in-tears, for what I did not understand of pain.

I decided to set aside all circumstance, and dedicate my life to you. I realize some, perhaps, would think this somewhat presumptuous. I do not feel that way, for:

1.) To set aside the 'boundary' on my side, for what I can do, and be my best, in dedication to a pure heart, and loving woman, for whom you are, is entirely love.

2.) I do not fear, for what I would-know is entirely within my control, for the one life I have to-live [for I know we are not reborn] - but of what I do know; entitled, on account of this; - that we go beyond Death.

3.) I have at consideration my welfare, knowing well you are safe, for what I can tolerate and allow, and entirely *can do-this, for what is the truth of life.

Thus, if you are willing to take a step with me, and it is you,... please say, and strike the Zen Bell six-time(s) twice-over with 'Yes Paris'.

I am not an honorable man, I possess weakness, and struggle through the courage to-be. I am not a pitied man, and try my best, but to find that one such-as-you has taken note, I am entirely made-better in my resolve, and patience with-life. Thus it is, we see the source of-things is different, than the way thing(s) end-up.

Add your note with the Zen Bell to prove it is you. - Love!
