

Vow to Ariana:

December 27th, 2021

I realize that we today here were gathered potentially far ahead, or in short notice.

I have felt some feelings for Ariana for some many year's, and it is devotion within departure, that I state, so as a man feel's for a woman, such is not with Ariana, but yet that I would freely grant of her unto these collected people.

That by in graces of what would be accomplished of the selfless attitude, it is of a providence I can claim, that Ariana has relented of my fortitude for acclaim, at that of finding of life what is within another, thus it is of adequacy to sharing that we equate with a people; for of what they would grieve and grant.

That of life, as I know it is more truthful when it is given of love what is to be granted, than taken, thus she is hereby the possessorship of a people, for in each [aliked] there is the loss of a providence found with what is within, for indeed she would grant of me the liberty of way to become her entitled Husband.

Thus it is as I love this woman, she is acquitted for of what any majority would believe, the freedom to her life, for what I find in that of a heart that so appreciates what I need yield upon to avow of in you by a path we share together, the relinquishment of sorrow.

Paris Miles Brenden